SANNA
MARTINEZ

Sanna Martinez participated in the Icelandic National Final of Eurovision Song Contest in March this year with the title track of her EP "Keep it Cool" - now it is finally out! "Keep it Cool" is written by Sanna herself together with Swedish, Irish, and Icelandic songwriters and producers. Sanna is singing to a guy she was dating about living in the present because he talked a lot about his exes.

This is Sanna's debut EP and all her songs come with strong messages about female empowerment, self-love, and positivity. "Good", "Look at you", and "Animals" have already been released. They have all gotten good support in playlists and blogs already. The song "Look at you" is co-written by Negin Djafari who has written songs for Miley Cyrus, Drake, MØ, James Arthur, Fifth Harmony, Snakehips, and Missy Elliot. The new songs on the EP are "Lucky Tonight" and "Ain't it sad?", both feminine power songs.

Sanna Martinez has performed a lot during the summer and fall at festivals and venues. She has also released more songs than ever and she's planning to release many more in 2023. The songs are released through the crowdfunding platform Corite.

Sanna Martinez will host a big release party at Hilma in Stockholm City tonight at 10 pm. There she will perform the songs together with the great musicians August Svärdröm and Lukas Hellenberg.
